Lesson 1

Recognizing Sentences (Telling and Asking) and Non- Sentences

What's New

In today's lesson, you will learn how to tell sentences from non -sentences.

Check (/) if the group of words is a sentence and cross out (X) if it is a non-sentence.

1. The boy is studying his lessons. ☐
2. Marikina is a clean city. ☐

3. in the hospital

☐

4. How old are you?

☐

5. The vendor

☐

What is It

Read these groups of words:

two puppies

an old bag

my favorite

on the table

took a bath

These are examples of non- sentences. Notice that these groups of words do not express complete thoughts.

Now read the following:

Two puppies are in the cage.

I have an old bag.

My favorite fruit is a banana.

Who took a bath?

What is on the table?

The second set of examples are called sentences. All sentences express a complete thought. They begin with a capital letter and end with punctuation marks like period (.) or question mark (?).

Read the dialogue between Trina and her mother.

The dialogue is a conversation between Trina and her mother. Trina used an asking sentence while her mother used a telling sentence. Telling sentence tells about something or answers a question. It begins with a capital letter and ends with a period (.).

Here are examples of telling sentences:

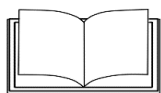

The dog is barking.

The toy is in the box.

Asking sentence asks about something and needs an answer. It begins with a capital letter and ends with a question mark (?). They begin with asking words like who, whose, what, where, when, how, why, did, do, will, are and is. Here are examples of asking sentences:

What are you eating?

Where is the toy?

What's More

A. Read the following group of words and then write the letter under the proper column below.

A. The children are singing.
